Antonio Vivaldi

Antonio Vivaldi was born in Venice, Italy, which is where he spent most of his life. His father, a professional musician at St. Mark’s Church, taught him to play the violin, and the two often performed together.

Although Vivaldi was ordained a priest in the Catholic Church (he was called the “Red Priest” because of his flaming red hair), health problems prevented him from celebrating the Mass and he was not associated with any one particular church. He continued to study and practice the violin and became a teacher at a Venetian orphanage for young girls, a position he held for the rest of his life. The orchestra of this institution became famous, and people came from miles around the hear Vivaldi’s talented students perform the beautiful music he had written for them.

Vivaldi was one of the best composers of his time. He wrote operas, sonatas and choral works, but is particularly known for his concertos (he composed over 500, although many have been lost). One of the most famous sets is The Four Seasons. After his death, Vivaldi’s music was virtually forgotten for many years. However, in the early 1900’s, many of his original scores were rediscovered and his popularity and reputation have continued to grow since that time.

Spring

Spring has come, and joyfully the birds welcome it with cheerful song, and the streams, caressed by the breath of zephyrs, flow swiftly with sweet murmurings.

But now the sky is cloaked in black and thunder and lightning announce themselves; when they die away, the little birds return to fill the air with their sweet song.

Then on the pleasant flower-strewn meadow, to the gentle rustle of leaves and branches the goatherd rests, his faithful dog at his side.

To the rustic bagpipe’s gay sound, nymph and shepherd dance beneath the fair spring sky in all its glory.
“Spring” Listening Map Game

Now it’s your turn to follow the story of “Spring” through the music. Follow the clues given below to help you along your way. The instrument pictures will let you know if a large or small group is playing at the time. Listen for the imitation (various instruments take turns playing the same phrase).
